CONSTITUTION

The 1987 Constitution of the Philippines is a landmark document that defines the structure and powers of the government, and the rights and duties of the citizenry. It is the supreme law of the land, and all laws and actions of the government must conform to its provisions. The Constitution is a living document, and it has been amended several times since its adoption in 1987. The most significant amendments are the 1989 and 1997 amendments, which introduced changes to the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government, and to the local government structure. The Constitution is a cornerstone of the Philippine legal system, and it is the basis for the country's democratic governance.
